HE DID NOT APPEAR BEFORE THE AS SESSORS OF MAMARONECK.

TAX FIGURES MAY BE INCREASED AT THE NEXT MEETING OF THE BOARD-PROTESTS IN GREENBURG TOWNSHIP.

C. Oliver Iselin, who had been cited to appear before the Assessors at Mamaroneck yesterday, did not appear, much to the disappointment of the Board. Mr. Iselin had been asked to bring his bankbook and private papers and all other data relating to his possessions, in an action for a refuction of $85,000 on the valuation placed on Ali View, his Premium Point home, and a reduction : $50,000 on the assessment of $100,000 on his personal estate. Mr. Iselin is at Newport on board the Intrepid, where he has been since the cruise of the New-York Yacht Club. He was represented by postponed the case until Monday night. Mr. be present then or not. The Assessors informed Mr. Van Zelm that unless Mr. Iselin is present in person they will not entertain any proposition for will increase the assessment forthwith."

Columbus O'Donnell Iselin appeared yesterday morning before the Assessors of New-Rochelle, accompanied by his legal advisor, Herbert D. Lent. Supervisor of East Chester, and asked for a reduction of $60,000 on his personal valuation and a sweeping reduction on his real property.

Mr. Iselin told the assessors that he was a resident of New-York City, and that all his personal property is raied there at its full value. He admitted that he had voted in New-Rochelle for several years, but said that, as he understood that, the law would make no change in the state of affairs. His protest was taken under advisement, with that of his brother, Adrian Iselin, jr., who protested several days ago.

The Greenburg Town Assessors visited Greenville yesterday to give the rural residents of the town a chance for swearing off their assessments, if they could. They met in Justice R. B. Farrington's law office, in Central-ave, and thither came the farmers and others having grievances. The first was Catherine K. Velle, who asked to have the assessment of $5,000 on her little property reduced to $1,000, and to have the personal assessment of $5,000 reduced to $2,000, William H. Johnson desired the Board to reduce his real estate assessment of $5,000 reduced to $2,000, and to take off his $5,000 personal assessment, as his indehedness was more than that.

Lemuel M. Harl was assessed for $12,000, and asked the Board to reduce it to $5,000, which was never its full value, and to reduce his personal assessment of $20,000 to $18,708.

A number of other complaints were heard, and the Board adjourned, to meet next Monday in Tarrytown, when there are some large estates to be disposed of.

The Ossining town assessors are still engaged in examining property-holders as to the value of their real and personal property. The day the assessors will examining property based upon mortagres on file at White Falms. White they appear upon record as being unsatisfied and in the hands of the parties to whom they

AN ATTACHMENT BY TELEPHONE.

The Sheriff has received an attachment for $2,2% against George P. Altenburg, who does business under the name of G. P. Altenburg & Co., bankers

A curious proceeding was developed in the case, as the attachment was only obtained by taking an affidavit of the plaintiff over the long-distance Shears, No. 96 Locast Hill-ave., as a compliment Shears, No. 96 Locast Hill-ave., as a compliment telephone to Cincianati. The suit was brought to recover $2,200 deposited by the plaintiff with the defendant individually to invest for him in West-ern Union and other shares. He says that Altenburg did not invest the money given him and refused, when asked, to return it.

As Rothler desired to attach property here belonging to Altenburg. It was necessary for him to make in atthaut that the facts as alleged were true. His lawyer, Horace E. Deming, was anxious to act upon the attachment at once, but was passed as to how to do so, as to bring feether nere would mean a delay of practically two days, while to send him an afficient for his attest dies and get it back would cause a still greater delay.

Joseph G. Deane, of counsel for the plaintiff, suggested that they should take his atthaut by then arose. Neither of the lawyers here knew Rothler's voice, and were aware that wehout being able to prove that his plaintiff was the person making affidavit over the wire the attachment could not be obtained. visiting his brother, H. E. Dudley, of No. 286
Broadway, at his summer home in Port Chester.
They had a faithful woman servant who was suffering from a tumor, and wished to place her in the hospital to be operated on while they went hunting in the Adirondacks. Dr. Dudley mentioned friends of Dr. Dalrymple in New-York City, who had recommended that he perform the operation, and his knowledge of the tumor was so accurate and technical that it dispelled any doubt that might have arisen. Dr. Dalrymple gave the man a note of introduction to the matron, Miss Newton, and he sooned gained her confidence and made arrangements to have the patient cared for at $14 for two weeks. The doctor then gave Miss Newton a check for $25, drawn on the Lincoin Bank in his favor by his brother. H. E. Dudley, of No. 286 old, and a stalwart young fellow. With his wife Mary, twenty years old, he lives at No. 469 West Forty-eighth-st. Only four months ago they were married, and Tom was voted a lucky fellow when he led his bride to the altar. He had saved a considerable sum of money and was able to furnish after they were married. Tom worked every day at his trade, and each pay night a good sum was laid away for the bank. One night Tom came home tired and weary, and noticed that something was wrong with his wife. She was not as cheerful as usual, and he found to his utter amazemen ful as usual, and he found to his utter amazement and horror that she was under the influence of liquor. He concluded to wait until Mary was herself before speaking of it.

The next morning the young wife was penitent, and tearfully promised her husband that she would not offend again. But her appetite for the whishey was too strong, and she gradually grew more and more enslaved. She finally began to pawn her trinkets. First a gold watch, given to her on her wedding day, was quietly carried to the pawn-broker. The next thing she took was her wedding day, was quietly carried to the pawn-broker. The next thing she took was her wedding dress. Yesterday she took her diamond engagement ring and pledged it for $12. When the young husband returned home from work last night he could not find his wife, and a little later a neighbor told him that Mary was at Tenth-ave, and Forty-eighth-st., very drunk.

The husband hurried there, and found his wife in the centre of a howling, jeering crowd. With tears in his eyes he pleaded with her to go home, but she would not. Finally, to get her away from the crowd, he asked Folkeman Convey to place her under arrest. The officer took her to the West Forty-seventh-st. station, and the husband followed. At the station he gave the matron his last dollar to buy the wife something to eat. He thinks he can have her placed in some institution where she will overcome her passion for rum.
